

Arrest and Detention of Material Witnesses: Federal Law In Brief

Updated March 8, 2006

Congressional Research Service

<https://crsreports.congress.gov>

RL33077

Summary

This is an overview of the law under the federal material witness statute which authorizes the arrest of material witnesses, permits their release under essentially the same bail laws that apply to federal criminal defendants, but favors their release after their depositions have taken.

Witnesses at Congressional oversight hearings alleged that the authority to arrest and hold material witnesses until their appearance at federal criminal proceedings (including grand jury proceedings) had been abused following September 11, 2001. Section 12 of the USA PATRIOT Act and Terrorism Prevention Reauthorization Act (H.R. 3199) as reported by the House Judiciary Committee called for a periodic review and reports on the use of the material witness statute. In the face of Administration opposition, however, the provision was dropped from the bill prior to House consideration. No similar proposal could be found in the version of H.R. 3199 (S. 1389) approved in the Senate or in the conference bill sent to the President. S. 1739 would rewrite the federal statute, setting detention time limits and raising evidentiary standards for arrest and detention among other things.

A list of citations to comparable state statutes and a bibliography of law review articles and notes are appended.

The report is available to congressional clients in an abridged form—without footnotes, citations to most authorities and appendices—as CRS Report RS22259, Arrest and Detention of Material Witnesses: A Sketch, by Charles Doyle.

Contents

Introduction.....	1
Arrest.....	3
Bail.....	5
Depositions.....	6
Related Matters	7
Legislative Activity in 109 th Congress	8
H.R. 3199.....	8
S. 1739	11

Appendixes

Appendix A. 18 U.S.C. 3144 (S. 1739 proposed amendments)	12
Appendix B. Citations to State Material Witness Statutes	15
Appendix C. Bibliography.....	16

Contacts

Author Information.....	17
-------------------------	----

Introduction

Witnesses in a federal criminal case may find themselves arrested, held for bail, and in some cases imprisoned until they are called upon to testify, 18 U.S.C. 3144. The same is true in most if not all of the states.¹ Although subject to intermittent criticism,² it has been so at least from the beginning of the Republic.³ The Supreme Court has never squarely considered the constitutionality of section 3144 or any of its predecessors, but it has observed in passing that, “[t]he duty to disclose knowledge of crime . . . is so vital that one known to be innocent may be detained in the absence of bail, as a material witness,” Stein v. New York, 346 U.S. 156, 184 (1953).⁴ Even more telling may be an earlier remark from the Court to the effect that, “[t]he constitutionality of this [federal material witness] statute apparently has never been doubted,” Barry v. United States ex rel. Cunningham, 279 U.S. 597, 617 (1929).

In spite of the concerns of some that the authority can be used as a means to jail a suspect while authorities seek to discover probable cause sufficient to support a criminal accusation⁵ or as a

¹ A discussion of the provisions of state law is beyond the scope of this report. Citations to the state statutes are appended.

² 1 BISHOP, CRIMINAL PROCEDURE, 18-9 (2d ed. 1872) (“The committing magistrate, having the witnesses for the prosecution before him, will take their recognizances to appear and testify before the upper court. Sometimes the purposes of justices require that these recognizances should be with sureties, and occasionally the unpleasant result follows that a witness cannot obtain sureties, and he is detained in prison”); ALI, CODE OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE, §58 note (Tent. Draft 1928) (“One of the evils in connection with the administration of the criminal law in most states is the practice or confining for long periods of time, generally in the country jail, witnesses who cannot give bail”); Cessante Ratione Legis Cessat Ipsa Lex (The Plight of the Detained Material Witness), 7 CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY LAW REVIEW 37, 50 (“Failure of state and federal government to come up with a sound policy in dealing with the problem of material witnesses is manifestly a deplorable situation”); Studnicki, Material Witness Detention: Justice Served or Denied? 40 WAYNE LAW REVIEW 1533, 1568 (1994) (“The continued use of material witnesses statutes will undoubtedly be an issue debated well into the next century. Whether the criminal justice system abandons this ancient practice in favor of a more humane policy toward the treatment of witnesses remains to be seen”); Boyle, The Material Witness Statute Post September 11: Why It Should Not Include Grand Jury Witnesses, 48 NEW YORK LAW SCHOOL LAW REVIEW 13, 13 (2003) (“Upon the mere conclusory statement of a government official that a person has material information and might not respond to a subpoena, the person may incarcerated for an indefinite period of time, without bail, and under onerous conditions”).

³ 1 Stat. 91 (1789) (“copies of the process [criminal complaint] shall be returned as speedily as may be into the clerk’s office of such court, together with the recognizances of the witnesses for their appearance to testify in the case; which recognizances the magistrate before whom the examination shall be, may require on pain of imprisonment”); see also, Rev. Stat. §879 (1878) (“Any judge or other officer who may be authorized to arrest and imprison or bail persons charged with any crime or offense against the United States may, at the hearing of any such charge, require of any witness produced against the prisoner, on pain of imprisonment, a recognizance, with or without sureties, in his discretion, for his appearance to testify in the case”); 28 U.S.C. 657 (1926 ed.); F.R.Crim.P. 46(b), 18 U.S.C. App. (1946 ed.); 18 U.S.C. 3149 (1970 ed.).

⁴ See also, Blair v. United States, 250 U.S. 273, 280-81 (1919) (“At the foundation of our federal government the inquisitorial function of the grand jury and compulsion of witnesses were recognized as incidents of the judicial power of the United States. . . [B]y the Sixth Amendment, in all criminal prosecutions the accused was given the right to a speedy trial and public trial, with compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor. By the first Judiciary Act, the mode of proof by examination of witnesses in the courts of the United States was regulated, and their duty to appear and testify was recognized. . . [The Revised Statutes] contain provisions for requiring witnesses in criminal proceedings to give recognizance for their appearance to testify, and for detaining them in prison in default of such recognizance. In all of these provisions . . . it is clearly recognized that the giving of testimony and the attendance upon court or grand jury in order to testify are public duties which every person within the jurisdiction of the government is bound to perform upon being properly summoned . . . The personal sacrifice involved is a part of the necessary contribution of the individual to the welfare of the public. The duty, so onerous at times, [is] yet so necessary to the administration of justice to the forms and modes established in our system of government. . .”); VIII WIGMORE ON EVIDENCE §§2190-2192 (3d ed. 1940).

⁵ Carlson & Voelpel, Material Witness and Material Injustice, 58 WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY LAW REVIEW 1, 9

preventive detention measure,⁶ the lower courts have denied that the federal material witness statute can be used as a substitute for a criminal arrest warrant.⁷ Particularly in the early stages of an investigation, however, an individual's proximity to a crime may make him both a legitimate witness and a legitimate suspect.⁸

The case law and statistical information suggest that the federal statute is used with surprising regularity⁹ and most often in the prosecution of immigration offenses involving material witnesses who are foreign nationals.¹⁰ Critics, however, contend that since September 11, 2001, (1980) ("Over the years prosecutors and police have sometimes invoked the power to confine criminal suspects as witnesses while gathering evidence against the witness-defendant").

⁶ Levenson, Detention, Material Witnesses & the War on Terrorism, 35 LOYOLA OF LOS ANGELES LAW REVIEW 1217, 1225 (2002) ("Material witness laws provide the government with the perfect avenue to jail those it considers dangerous. It is preventive detention. . . The government uses these laws to round up people because of what it expects them to do, rather than what it can prove they have done").

⁷ United States v. Awadallah, 349 F.3d 42, 59 (2d Cir. 2003) ("The district court noted (and we agree) that it would be improper for the government to use §3144 for other ends, such as the detention of persons suspected of criminal activity for which probable cause has not yet been established. However, the district court made no finding (and we see no evidence to suggest) that the government arrested Awadallah for any purpose other than to secure information material to a grand jury investigation"); In re De Jesus Berrios, 706 F.2d 355, 358 (1st Cir. 1983) ("no showing has been made that the arrest was a subterfuge designed to obtain non-testimonial evidence or to bring a target before the grand jury") (even though the witness had been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury to testify, provide hair samples, and take part in a lineup).

⁸ Those subject to arrest under the federal statute include Terry Nichols (subsequently convicted for complicity in the Oklahoma City bombing), In re Material Witness Warrant, 77 F.3d 1277, 1278 (10th Cir. 1996); Jose Padilla (subsequently transferred to military custody as an "enemy combatant"), Rumsfeld v. Padilla, 542 U.S. 426, 430-31 (2004); and Brandon Mayfield (whose fingerprint was erroneously thought to match one linked to the Madrid train bombing), In re Federal Grand Jury Proceedings, 337 F.Supp.2d 1218, 1220-221 (D. Ore. 2004).

⁹ United States magistrate judges conducted 4882 material witness hearings in FY2004; 4070 in FY2003; 2961 in FY2002; 3344 in FY2001; and 3603 in FY2000, Administrative Office of the United States Courts, Judicial Business of the United States Courts, Table M-3 (2005); id. (2004); id. (2003); id. (2002); id. (2001), available on August 31, 2005 at <http://www.uscourts.gov>. The annual reports of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts indicate that the statistics have not changed a great deal over the last quarter century, United States magistrates conducted 6865 material witness hearings in FY1981; 8221 in FY1980; 6481 in FY1978; 3230 in FY1977; and 2048 in FY1976, Reports of the Proceedings of the Judicial Conference of the United States/Annual Report of the District of the Administrative Office of United States Courts, Table M-3 (1981); id. (1980); id. (1978); id. (1977); id. (1976).

¹⁰ See e.g., In re Class Action Application of Habeas Corpus on Behalf of All Material Witnesses in the Western District of Texas, 612 F.Supp. 904 (W.D. Tex. 1985); United States v. Nai, 949 F.Supp. 42 (D.Mass. 1996); United States v. Aguilar-Tamayo, 300 F.3d 562 (5th Cir. 2002); United States v. Lai Fa Chen, 214 F.R.D. 578 (N.D.Cal. 2003), all involving illegal alien smuggling. Statistics from the Administrative Office of the United States Courts indicate that an overwhelming majority of the material witness hearings conducted by United States magistrate judges occur in judicial districts bordering Mexico:

District	FY2004	FY2003	FY2002	FY2001	FY2000
S.D.Cal.	1210	936	721	601	728
D. Ariz.	808	495	295	313	597
D. N.Mex.	287	288	253	233	220
W.D. Tex.	503	406	474	533	566
S.D. Tex.	1423	1290	676	814	765

Administrative Office of the United States Courts, Judicial Business of the United States Courts, Table M-3, (2005); id. (2004); id. (2003); id. (2002); id. (2001), United States Courts, Table M-3, (2005); id. (2004); id. (2003); id. (2002); id. (2001), available on August 31, 2005 at <http://www.uscourts.gov>. The historical picture is much the same:

District	FY1981	FY1980	FY1978	FY1977	FY1976
-----------------	---------------	---------------	---------------	---------------	---------------

seventy individuals, mostly Muslims, have been arrested and detained in abuse of the statute's authority.¹¹

Arrest

The federal material witness statute provides that:

If it appears from an affidavit filed by a party that the testimony of a person is material in a criminal proceeding, and if it is shown that it may become impracticable to secure the presence of the person by subpoena, a judicial officer may order the arrest of the person and treat the person in accordance with the provisions of section 3142 of this title [relating to bail]. No material witness may be detained because of inability to comply with any condition of release if the testimony of such witness can adequately be secured by deposition, and if further detention is not necessary to prevent a failure of justice. Release of a material witness may be delayed for a reasonable period of time until the deposition of the witness can be taken pursuant to the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure. 18 U.S.C. 3144.

An arrest warrant for a witness with evidence material to a federal criminal proceeding may be issued by federal or state judges or magistrates.¹² The statute applies to potential grand jury witnesses as well as to potential trial witnesses.¹³ Section 3144 on its face authorizes arrest at the behest of any party to a criminal proceeding. In the case of criminal trial, both the government and the defendants may call upon the benefits of section 3144.¹⁴ Availability is a bit less clear in the case of grand jury proceedings. In a literal sense, there are no parties to a grand jury investigation other than the grand jury.¹⁵ Moreover, it seems unlikely that a suspect, even the target of a grand jury investigation, would be considered a "party" to a grand jury proceeding. The purpose of section 3144 is the preservation of evidence for criminal proceedings. Potential defendants, even if they are the targets of a grand jury investigation, have no right to present

S.D.Cal.	2637	3636	2821	1095	755
D. Ariz.	603	691	978	770	366
D. N.Mex.	57	16	147	154	85
W.D. Tex.	651	734	1267	252	211
S.D. Tex.	2232	1946	2244	461	374

Reports of the Proceedings of the Judicial Conference of the United States/Annual Report of the District of the Administrative Office of United States Courts, Table M-3 (1981); id. (1980); id. (1978); id. (1977); id. (1976).

¹¹ 151 Cong.Rec. S10296 (daily ed. Sept. 21, 2005), citing, Witness to Abuse: Human Rights Abuses under the Material Witness Law since September 11, 17 HUMAN RIGHTS WATCH 1-3 (June 2005), available on September 5, 2005 at, http://hrw.org/english/docs/2005/06/27/usdom11213_txt.htm.

¹² 18 U.S.C. 3156(a)(1) ("As used in sections 3141-3150 of this chapter—(1) the term 'judicial officer' means, unless otherwise indicated, any person or court authorized pursuant to section 3041 of this title, or the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, to detain or release a person before trial or sentencing or pending appeal in a court of the United States, and any judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia"). Section 3041 authorizes federal and state judges and magistrates to issue arrest warrants and conduct bail proceedings in federal criminal cases.

¹³ United States v. Awadallah, 349 F.3d 42, 49-51 (2d Cir. 2003); United States v. Bacon, 449 F.2d 933, 939-41 (9th Cir. 1971); contra, United States v. Awadallah, 202 F.Supp.2d 55, 61-79 (S.D.N.Y. 2002), rev'd, 349 F.3d 42 (2d Cir. 2003).

¹⁴ Aguilar-Ayala v. Ruiz, 973 F.2d 411, 413 (5th Cir. 1992); United States v. Nai, 949 F.Supp. 42, 44 (D. Mass. 1966).

¹⁵ United States v. Williams, 504 U.S. 36, 47 (1992) ("the grand jury . . . has not been textually assigned [by the Constitution] to any of the branches described in the first three Articles. It is a constitutional fixture in its own right. In fact the whole theory of its function is that it belongs to no branch of the institutional government").

evidence to the grand jury.¹⁶ On the other hand, a federal prosecutor ordinarily arranges for the presentation of witnesses to the grand jury.¹⁷ It is therefore not surprising that the courts seem to assume without deciding that the government may claim the benefits of section 3144 in the case of grand jury witnesses.¹⁸

Issuance of a section 3144 arrest warrant requires affidavits establishing probable cause to believe (1) that the witness can provide material evidence, and (2) that it will be “impracticable” to secure the witness’ attendance at the proceeding simply by subpoenaing him.¹⁹ Neither the statute nor the case law directly address the question of what constitutes “material” evidence for purposes of section 3144, but in other contexts the term is understood to mean that which has a “natural tendency to influence, or is capable of influencing, the decision of the decisionmaking body to which it was addressed.”²⁰ At the grand jury level, the government may establish probable cause to believe a witness can provide material evidence through the affidavit of a federal prosecutor or a federal investigator gathering evidence with an eye to its presentation to the grand jury.²¹ This may not prove a particularly demanding standard in some instances given the sweeping nature of the grand jury’s power of inquiry.²²

As to the second required probable cause showing, a party seeking a material witness arrest warrant must establish probable cause to believe that it will be impractical to rely upon a subpoena to securing the witness’ appearance. The case law on point is sketchy, but it seems to indicate that impracticability may be shown by evidence of possible flight,²³ or of an expressed

¹⁶ Chandler v. Moscicki, 253 F.Supp.2d 478, 490 (W.D.N.Y. 2003), quoting, United States v. Williams, 504 U.S. 36, 52 (1992)(“a suspect under investigation by the grand jury does not have a right to testify or have exculpatory evidence presented”).

¹⁷ Rule 17(a) of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure states that federal criminal subpoenas are issued in blank by the clerk of the court and filled in by “the party” requesting them. Nevertheless, federal prosecutors complete and see to the service of most grand jury subpoenas, Lopez v. United States, 393 F.3d 1345, 1349 (D.C.Cir. 2005)(“the term ‘grand jury subpoena’ is in some respects a misnomer, because the grand jury itself does not decide whether to issue the subpoena; the prosecuting attorney does”).

¹⁸ See e.g., United States v. Awadallah, 349 F.3d 42, 66 (2d Cir. 2003)(“in the case of a grand jury proceeding, we think that a statement by a responsible official, such as the United States Attorney is sufficient”), quoting on the question of affidavit sufficiency under section 3144, United States v. Bacon, 449 F.2d 933, 943 (9th Cir. 1971).

¹⁹ United States v. Awadallah, 349 F.3d 42, 64 (2d Cir. 2003); United States v. Oliver, 683 F.2d 224, 231 (7th Cir. 1982); United States v. Bacon, 449 F.2d 933, 943 (9th Cir. 1971); United States v. Coldwell, 496 F.Supp. 305, 307 (E.D.Okla. 1979).

²⁰ Neder v. United States, 527 U.S. 1, 16 (1999), quoting, United States v. Gaudin, 515 U.S. 506, 509 (1995)(materiality as an element of various federal fraud statutes). In the context of the prosecution’s failure to disclose material exculpatory evidence, “the material standard Brady claims is met when the favorable evidence could reasonably be taken to put the whole case in such a different light as to undermine confidence in the verdict,” Banks v. Dretke, 540 U.S. 668, 698 (2004), quoting, Kyles v. Whitley, 514 U.S. 419, 435 (1995).

²¹ United States v. Awadallah, 349 F.3d 42, 66 (2d Cir. 2003); United States v. Oliver, 683 F.2d 224, 231 (7th Cir. 1982); United States v. Bacon, 449 F.2d 933, 943 (9th Cir. 1971).

²² Branzburg v. Hayes, 408 U.S. 665, 688 (1972)(“Because [the grand jury’s] task is to inquire into the existence of possible criminal conduct and to return only well-founded indictments, its investigative powers are necessarily broad. It is a grand inquest, a body with powers of investigation and inquisition, the scope of whose inquiries is not to be limited narrowly by questions of propriety or forecasts of the probable result of the investigation, or by doubts whether any particular individual will be found properly subject to an accusation of crime”); United States v. R. Enterprises, Inc., 498 U.S. 292, 297 (1991)(“The function of the grand jury is to inquire into all information that might possibly bear on its investigation until it has identified an offense or has satisfied itself that none has occurred. As a necessary consequence of its investigatory function, the grand jury paints with a broad brush. A grand jury investigation is not fully carried out until every available clue has been run down and all witnesses examined in every proper way to find if a crime has been committed”).

²³ The government’s affidavit merely asserted “with respect to the probability of Nichol’s flight: Terry Nichols’

refusal to cooperate,²⁴ or of difficulty experienced in serving a subpoena upon a trial witness,²⁵ or presumably by evidence that the witness is a foreign national who will have returned or been returned home by the time his testimony is required.²⁶ Evidence that investigators have experienced difficulties serving a particular grand jury witness may not be enough to justify the issuance of an arrest warrant in all cases.²⁷

Bail

With limited variations, federal bail laws apply to material witnesses arrested under section 3144.²⁸ Arrested material witnesses are entitled to the assistance of counsel during bail proceedings and to the appointment of an attorney when they are unable to detain private counsel.²⁹ The bail laws operate under an escalating system in which release is generally favored, then release with conditions or limitations is preferred, and finally as a last option detention is permitted.³⁰ A defendant is released on his word (personal recognizance) or bond unless the court renunciation of his U.S. citizenship and his association with Tim McVeigh, a person involved in such a heinous crime, indicates that his testimony cannot be secured through the issuance of a subpoena,” In re Material Witness Warrant, 77 F.3d 1277, 1278 (10th Cir. 1996), dismissing as moot an appeal from, United States v. McVeigh, 940 F.Supp. 1541, 1562 (D.Colo. 1996)(denial of a motion to quash a material witness arrest warrant on grounds of impracticality).

²⁴ United States v. Coldwell, 496 F.Supp. 305, 307 (E.D. Okla. 1979)(As to impracticality, “the Dempewolf affidavit shows that (a) Alston has refused to cooperate with law enforcement officials. . . (b) Alston has indicated that he will not testify in this case unless the Oklahoma Bureau . . . satisfies certain conditions that . . . are impossible to meet; (c) two unsuccessful attempts have been made to serve Alston with a subpoena through his attorney; and (d) Alston’s attorney has indicated that Alston has expressed a definite unwillingness to cooperate with the government”).

²⁵ United States v. Feingold, 416 F.Supp. 627, 628 (E.D.N.Y. 1976)(“We are not here dealing with a witness before a grand jury where disregard of a subpoena would simply mean a continuation of the grand jury’s deliberations until an appropriate warrant might be served and executed. Here, Feingold’s testimony is needed at Nashi’s trial. Once commenced, the trial would continue on consecutive days, and Feingold’s testimony would be needed before the Government rested its case. Since Feingold is presumably in California, for the Government to have to defer its arrest warrant until he ignored a subpoena to attend the trial will preclude his testifying altogether. The . . . affidavit showed unsuccessful attempts to serve Feingold with a subpoena either through his California attorney or on seven different days at Feingold’s home”).

²⁶ Perhaps because the point seems too obvious for dispute or discussion, none of the reported federal cases appear to have held the impracticality requirement can be satisfied by evidence that a material witness, who is a foreign national illegally present in this country, may be overseas and thus beyond the reach of the court’s subpoena when his testimony is required. The number of foreign material witnesses arrested and held for the trial of immigration prosecutions indicate the government has experienced little difficulty satisfying the impracticality requirement in such cases, see e.g., Torres-Ruiz v. United States District Court, 120 F.3d 933 (9th Cir. 1997); United States v. Allie, 978 F.2d 1401 (5th Cir. 1992); United States v. Nai, 949 F.Supp. 42 (D.Mass. 1996); United States v. Huang, 827 F.Supp. 945 (S.D.N.Y. 1993).

²⁷ Arnsberg v. United States, 757 F.2d 971, 976-77 (9th Cir. 1985)(“In the district court’s view, the difficulties encountered by agents . . . in attempting to serve Arnsberg did not establish probable cause for believing that it would be impracticable to secure Arnsberg’s presence by subpoena. . . . The facts do not show that Arnsberg was a fugitive or that he would be likely to flee the jurisdiction; rather, they only show a man somewhat obstinately insisting upon his right to refuse to appear before a grand jury until personally served. Those facts are insufficient to provide probable cause for believing that Arnsberg’s attendance could not be secured by subpoena”).

²⁸ 18 U.S.C. 3144 (“. . . a judicial officer may order the arrest of the person and treat the person in accordance with the provisions of section 3142 of this title . . .”).

²⁹ In re Class Action Application for Habeas Corpus on Behalf of All Material Witnesses in Western District of Texas, 612 F.Supp. 940, 943-45(W.D.Tex. 1985); 18 U.S.C. 3142(f); 18 U.S.C. 3006A(a)(1)(G).

³⁰ 18 U.S.C. 3142(a)(“Upon the appearance before a judicial officer of a person charged with an offense, the judicial officer shall issue an order that, pending trial, the person be—(1) released on personal recognizance or upon execution of an unsecured appearance bond, under subsection (b) of this section; (2) released on a condition or combination of conditions under subsection (c) of this section; (3) temporarily detained to permit revocation of conditional release,

finds such assurances insufficient to guarantee his subsequent appearance or to ensure public or individual safety.³¹ A material witness need only satisfy the appearance standard.³² A material witness who is unable to do so is released under such conditions or limitations as the court finds adequate to ensure his later appearance to testify.³³ If neither word nor bond nor conditions will suffice, the witness may be detained.³⁴ The factors a court may consider in determining whether a material witness is likely to remain available include his deposition, character, health, and community ties.³⁵

Depositions

Section 3144 declares that “[n]o material witness may be detained because of inability to comply with any condition of release if the testimony of such witness can adequately be secured by deposition, and if further detention is not necessary to prevent a failure of justice.” The corresponding federal deposition rule permits the witness,³⁶ the government, or the defendant to request that a detained material witness’ deposition be taken.³⁷ A court enjoys only limited discretion to deny a detained witness’ request. The Fifth Circuit has observed that, “Read together, Rule 15(a) and section 3144 provide a detained witness with a mechanism for securing his own release. He must file a written motion requesting that he be deposed. The motion must demonstrate that his testimony can adequately be secured by deposition, and that further detention is not necessary to prevent a failure of justice. Upon such showing, the district court must order his deposition and prompt release,” Aguilar-Ayala v. Ruiz, 973 F.2d 411, 413 (5th Cir. 1992). Other courts seem to agree.³⁸ The “failure of justice” limitation comes into play when release of the witness following the taking of his deposition would ultimately deny a defendant the benefit of favorable material testimony in derogation of his right to compulsory process.³⁹ It does not deportation, or exclusion under subsection (d) of this section; or (4) detained under subsection (e) of this section.”).

³¹ 18 U.S.C. 3142(b)(“The judicial officer shall order the pretrial release of the person on personal recognizance, or upon execution of an unsecured appearance bond in an amount specified by the court, subject to the condition that the person not commit a Federal, State, or local crime during the period of release, unless the judicial officer determines that such release will not reasonably assure the appearance of the person as required or will endanger the safety of any other person or the community”).

³² United States v. Awadallah, 349 F.3d 42, 63 n.15 (2d Cir. 2003), citing, S.Rep.No. 98-225, at 28 no.90 (1983)(“Of course a material witness is not to be detained on the basis of dangerousness”); United States v. Nai, 949 F.Supp. 42, 44 (D.Mass. 1996)(“a material witness may be detained only if the judicial officer finds by a preponderance of the evidence, that the material witness poses a risk of flight”).

³³ 18 U.S.C. 3142(c).

³⁴ 18 U.S.C. 3142(e).

³⁵ United States v. Awadallah, 349 F.3d 42, 63 n.15 (2d Cir. 2003); 18 U.S.C. 3142(g).

³⁶ F.R.Crim.P. 15(a)(2)(“A witness who is detained under 18 U.S.C. § 3144 may request to be deposed by filing a written motion and giving notice to the parties. The court may then order that the deposition be taken and may discharge the witness after the witness has signed under oath the deposition transcript”).

³⁷ F.R.Crim.P. 15(a)(1)(“A party may move that a prospective witness be deposed in order to preserve testimony for trial. The court may grant the motion because of exceptional circumstances and in the interest of justice. If the court orders the deposition to be taken, it may also require the deponent to produce at the deposition any designated material that is not privileged, including any book, paper, document, record, recording, or data.”).

³⁸ Torres-Ruiz v. United States District Court, 120 F.3d 933, 935 (9th Cir. 1997); United States v. Nai, 949 F.Supp. 42, 44 (D. Mass. 1996); United States v. Huang, 827 F.Supp. 945, 948 (S.D.N.Y. 1993).

³⁹ United States v. Huang, 827 F.Supp. 945, 950-52 (S.D.N.Y. 1993); cf., United States v. Valenzuela-Bernal, 458 U.S. 858, 872-73 (1982)(The government may deport “illegal-alien witnesses upon the Executive’s good-faith determination that they possess no evidence favorable to the defendant in a criminal prosecution. The mere fact that the government deports such witnesses is not sufficient to establish a violation of the Compulsory Process Clause of the Sixth Amendment or the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment. A violation of these provisions requires some showing include the fact that a judicial officer will not be present at the taking of the deposition or that the witness is an illegal alien subject to prosecution.⁴⁰

Unlike the request of a detained witness, a government or defendant's request that a witness' deposition be taken must show "exceptional circumstances" and that granting the request is "in the interest of justice," F.R.Crim.P. 15(a)(1).⁴¹ Nevertheless, the fact that a witness is being detained will often be weighed heavily regardless of who requests that depositions be taken.⁴² The Circuits appear to be divided over whether in compliance with a local standing order the court may authorize depositions to be taken sua sponte in order to release a detained material witness.⁴³ In any event, whether any such depositions may be introduced in later criminal proceedings will depend upon whether the defendant's constitutional rights to confrontation and compulsory process have been accommodated.⁴⁴

Related Matters

The government must periodically report to the court on the continuing justification for holding an incarcerated material witness.⁴⁵ While a material witness is being held in custody he is entitled to the daily witness fees authorized for attendance at judicial proceedings.⁴⁶ Upon his release, the court may also order that he be provided with transportation and subsistence to enable him to that the evidence lost would be both material and favorable to the defense").

⁴⁰ Torres-Ruiz v. United States District Court, 120 F.3d 933, 936 (9th Cir. 1997).

⁴¹ United States v. Allie, 978 F.2d 1401, 1404 (5th Cir. 1992); United States v. Lai Fa Chen, 214 F.R.D. 578, 579 (N.D.Cal. 2003).

⁴² United States v. Fai Fa Chen, 214 F.R.D. 578, 580-81 (N.D.Cal. 2003)(Other courts faced with a motion brought by the government to depose material witnesses have considered their detained status when finding exceptional circumstances [citing United States v. Allie, 978 F.2d 1401 (5th Cir. 1992) and United States v. Rivera, 859 F.2d 1204 (4th Cir. 1988)]. . . Although detention itself does not amount to a per se 'exceptional circumstance' under Rule 15(a)(1), it would be the rare case when it would not"). In Rivera, the court observed that "[i]f the court had denied the motion for depositions, these alien witnesses would have been incarcerated for more than three months, even though they were neither indicted nor convicted of a crime. The appellant was both indicted and convicted on nine counts, and he spent less time incarcerated than did these witnesses, who were deposed and deported," 859 F.2d at 1207.

⁴³ Compare, United States v. Lopez, 918 F.2d 111, 112-114 (10th Cir. 1990)(depositions should not have been taken), and, United States v. Allie, 978 F.2d 1401, 1403-405 (5th Cir. 1992)(depositions were validly taken).

⁴⁴ United States v. Allie, 978 F.2d 1401, 1406-408 (5th Cir. 1992); United States v. Eufrazio-Torres, 890 F.2d 266, 268-71(10th Cir. 1989); United States v. Rivera, 859 F.2d 1204, 1207-209 (4th Cir. 1988); United States v. Huang, 827 F.Supp. 945, 947-52 (S.D.N.Y. 1993).

⁴⁵ F.R.Crim.P. 46(h)(2)("An attorney for the government must report biweekly to the court, listing each material witness held in custody for more than 10 days pending indictment, arraignment, or trial. For each material witness listed in the report, an attorney for the government must state why the witness should not be released with or without a deposition being taken under Rule 15(a)"). It is unclear whether and to what extent this safeguard can be evaded by moving the witness from one district to another, consider, United States v. Awadallah, 436 F.3d 125, (2d Cir. 2006)("[O]n September 21, Awadallah was arrested on a material witness warrant . . . and detained without bailed based on judicial findings that he possessed information material to the grand jury's investigation of the September 11 attacks. Also on September 21, Awadallah was taken from the FBI office to the San Diego Metropolitan Correctional Center ('MCC') [in the Southern District of California], where he was held until September 27. Subsequently, he was moved to the San Bernardino County Jail [in the Central District of California] and then to a federal facility in Oklahoma City. On October 1, she was moved to the New York City MCC where he was held in solitary confinement").

⁴⁶ 28 U.S.C. 1821 (" . . . (b) A witness shall be paid an attendance fee of $40 per day for each day's attendance. . . (d) . . . (4) When a witness is detained pursuant to section 3144 of title 18 for want of security for his appearance, he shall be entitled for each day of detention when not in attendance at court, in addition to his subsistence, to the daily attendance fee provided by subsection (b) of this section").

return to his place of arrest or residence.⁴⁷ Should he fail to appear after he has been released from custody he will be subject to prosecution,⁴⁸ an offense which may be punished more severely if his failure involves interstate or foreign travel to avoid testifying in a felony case.⁴⁹

Legislative Activity in 109th Congress

H.R. 3199

Witnesses at Congressional oversight hearings charged that the authority under 18 U.S.C. 3144 had been misused following September 11, 2001:

[The authority has been used] to secure the indefinite incarceration of those [prosecutors] wanted to investigate as possible terrorist suspects. This allowed the government to . . . avoid the constitutional protections guaranteed to suspects, including probable cause to believe the individual committed a crime and time-limited detention. . .

Witnesses were typically held round the clock in solitary confinement, subjected to the harsh and degrading high security conditions typically reserved for the most dangerous inmates accused or convicted of the most serious crimes. . . they were interrogated without counsel about their own alleged wrongdoing.

. . . [A] large number of witnesses were never brought before a grand jury or court to testify. More tellingly, in repeated cases the government has now apologized for arresting and incarcerating the “wrong guy.” The material witnesses were victims of the federal investigators and attorneys who were to[o] quick to jump to the wrong conclusions, relying on false, unreliable and irrelevant information. By evading the probable cause requirement for arrests of suspects, the government made numerous mistakes.⁵⁰

At the same hearings the Justice Department pointed out that the material witness statute is a long-standing and generally applicable law and not a creation of the USA PATRIOT Act; that it

⁴⁷ 18 U.S.C. 4282 (“On the release from custody of . . . a person held as a material witness, the court in its discretion may direct the United States marshal for the district wherein he is released, pursuant to regulations promulgated by the Attorney General, to furnish the person so released with transportation and subsistence to the place of his arrest, or, at his election, to the place of his bona fide residence if such cost is not greater than to the place of arrest”).

⁴⁸ 18 U.S.C. 3146 (“(a) Offense.—Whoever, having been released under this chapter [relating to bail] knowingly—(1) fails to appear before a court as required by the conditions of release . . . shall be punished as provided in subsection (b) of this section. (b) Penalties—(1) The punishment for an offense under this section is . . . (B) if the person was released for appearance as a material witness, a fine under this chapter or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both”).

⁴⁹ 18 U.S.C. 1073 (“Whoever moves or travels in interstate or foreign commerce with intent either . . . to avoid giving testimony in any criminal proceedings in such place in which the commission of an offense punishable by death or which is a felony under the laws of such place, is charged shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than five years, or both. . .”).

⁵⁰ Material Witness Provisions of the Criminal Code and the Implementation of the USA PATRIOT Act: Section 505 That Addresses National Security Letters, and Section 804 That Addresses Jurisdiction Over Crimes Committed at U.S. Facilities Abroad: Hearing Before the Subcomm. on Crime, Terrorism and Homeland Security of the House Comm. on the Judiciary (House Hearings), 109th Cong., 1st Sess. 26 (2005)(statement of Gregory T. Nojeim, American Civil Liberties Union), available on March 7, 2006 at <http://judiciary.house.gov/media/pdfs/nojeim052605.pdf>; see also, House Hearings, 42 (statement of Shayana Kadidal, Center for Constitutional Rights)(“Since September 11, the Bush Administration has reinvented the meaning of the material witness statute, and has misused it to preventively detain criminal or terrorist suspects against whom it cannot show probable cause of criminal activity while it carries out its investigation and builds its criminal case. This expansive exercise of executive power under the material witness statute has led to serious violations of constitutional and international law by: (1) allowing for arbitrary and indefinite detention upon a minimal showing; (2) limiting the ability of the press and the public to monitor the actions of our executive; and (3) facilitating racial and religious profiling and harsh treatment of suspected terrorists”), available on March 7, 2006 at <http://judiciary.house.gov/media/pdfs/kadidal052605.pdf>.

operates under the supervision of the courts; that witnesses are afforded the assistance of counsel (appointed where necessary); and that witnesses are ordinarily released following their testimony.⁵¹

When the Committee reported H.R. 3199 following the hearings, section 12 of the bill amended section 1001 of the USA PATRIOT Act by directing periodic review of the exercise of the authority under section 3144. In its original form section 1001 instructs the Justice Department Inspector General to designate an official who is (1) to receive and review complaints of alleged Justice Department civil rights and civil liberties violations, (2) to widely advertise his availability to receive such complaints, and (3) to report to the House and Senate Judiciary Committees twice a year on implementation of that requirement, P.L. 107-56, 115 Stat. 381 (2001). Section 12 amended section 1001 to impose additional responsibilities upon the Inspector General's designee, i.e., (1) to "review detentions of persons under section 3144 of title 18, United States Code, including their length, conditions of access to counsel, frequency of access to counsel, offense at issue, and frequency of appearances before a grand jury," (2) to advertise his availability to receive information concerning such activity, and (3) to report twice a year on implementation to the Judiciary Committees on implementation of this requirement.

OMB announced that the Administration generally supports H.R. 3199 as passed by the House, but that "[t]he Administration strongly oppose[d] section 12 of H.R. 3199, which would authorize the Department of Justice's Inspector General to investigate the use of material witnesses. As it is written, this provision would entail wholesale violation of Rule 6(e) of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, which protects the secrecy and sanctity of grand jury proceedings."⁵²

The exact nature of OMB's objection is somewhat unclear. Rule 6(e) prohibits disclosure of matters occurring before the grand jury, F.R.Crim.P. 6(e). Its purpose is to: (1) prevent the flight of suspects, (2) avoid defaming suspects ultimately found blameless, (3) shield the grand jury from the corrupt influences of the targets of its investigations, and (4) encourage witnesses to be forthcoming.⁵³ The rule does not prohibit disclosure by grand jury witnesses of matters occurring during their appearance before the panel.⁵⁴ There is some authority for the proposition that the rule does not bar disclosure to Congress.⁵⁵ And there is reason to believe that the rule does not apply to executive branch officials with supervisory authority over Justice Department attorneys who assist the grand jury.⁵⁶ In addition, from time to time, Congress has created several other ⁵¹ House Hearings, 6-8 (statement of Chuck Rosenberg, United States Department of Justice), available on March 7, 2006 at <http://judiciary.house.gov/media/pdfs/kadidal052605.pdf>.

⁵² Executive Office of the President, Office of Management and Budget, Statement of Administration Policy: H.R. 3199—USA PATRIOT and Terrorism Prevention Reauthorization Act of 2005, available on March 7, 2006, at <http://www.whitehouse.gov/omb/legislative/sap/109-1/hr3199sap-h.pdf>.

⁵³ United States v. John Doe, Inc., 481 U.S. 102, 109 n.5 (1983); Douglas Oil Co. v. Petrol Stops Northwest, 441 U.S. 211, 219 (1979).

⁵⁴ F.R.Crim.P. 6(e)(2)(“(A) No obligation of secrecy may be imposed on any person except in accordance with Rule 6(e)(2)(B). (B) Unless these rules provide otherwise, the following persons must not disclose a matter occurring before the grand jury; (i) a grand juror; (ii) an interpreter; (iii) a court reporter; (iv) an operator of a recording device; (v) a person who transcribes recorded testimony; (vi) an attorney for the government; or (vii) a person to whom disclosure is made under Rule 6(e)(3)(A)(ii) or (iii)[relating to government attorneys and other personnel assisting in the grand jury investigation]”); United States v. Sells Engineering, Inc., 463 U.S. 418, 425 (1983).

⁵⁵ In re Report & Recommendation of June 5, 1972 Grand Jury, 370 F.Supp. 1219, 1227-230 (D.D.C. 1974)(permitting disclosure of grand jury material relevant to an impeachment inquiry to the House Judiciary Committee); In re Grand Jury Investigation of Ven-Fuel, 441 F.Supp. 1299, 1320-304 (M.D.Fla. 1997)(permitting disclosure of grand jury material to a House legislative subcommittee).

⁵⁶ United States v. Sells Engineering, Inc., 463 U.S. 418, 429 n.11 (. . . the intent of the Rule is that every attorney (including a supervisor) who is working on a prosecution may have access to grand jury materials, at least while he is exceptions to the rule's general prohibitions either by amendment of the Rule,⁵⁷ or by a provision elsewhere in the Code.⁵⁸

The OMB statement that “[a]s it is written, this provision would entail wholesale violation of Rule 6(e) of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure” may be an objection to the fact that the proposal does not take the form of an amendment to Rule 6(e).⁵⁹ Yet it seems unlikely that OMB would base a statement of “strong” opposition solely on a question of legislative drafting style.

The statement could be read as a claim that Congress lacks the legislative authority to enact a provision at odds with Rule 6(e). But this cannot be. The rules were and are promulgated as an exercise of legislative authority.⁶⁰ Even when amendments to the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure come from the courts they are subject to Congressional rejection or modification before they become effective.⁶¹

The statement might be understood to declare that compliance with section 12 would involve “wholesale” disclosures which would be contrary to the purpose and demands of Rule 6(e) were it not superseded by the instructions of section 12. This might be seen as a contention that without the intervention of section 12, Rule 6(e) would prohibit disclosure of the information identified in section 12 to the designee of the Justice Department's Inspector General, or to the House and Senate Judiciary Committees, or to either of them.

This may be something of an overstatement. First, Rule 6(e) is implicated only with regard to matters occurring before the grand jury. Thus, Rule 6(e) is not implicated with respect to information concerning the detention of material trial witnesses under section 3144 of title 18. Nor is it clear that Rule 6(e) would be implicated by disclosure of information concerning the length of confinement or access to counsel of material grand jury witnesses as long as individual witnesses were not identified; nor of information in the aggregate of the offenses at issue and frequency of grand jury appearances of incarcerated material witnesses.⁶² But for section 12, Rule 6(e) would seem to apply to the identities of incarcerated grand jury witnesses, the offenses under consideration by specific grand jury panels, and the frequency of appearance by specific incarcerated witnesses. Even here, however, it is far from clear that absent section 12 the Rule conducting criminal matters. . .”).

⁵⁷ E.g., section 203(a) of USA PATRIOT Act, 115 Stat. 279 (2001)(amending Rule 6(e) to permit foreign intelligence information sharing with various federal officials, see F.R.Crim.P. 6(e)(3)(D)).

⁵⁸ E.g., 18 U.S.C. 3322 (authorizing disclosure in conjunction with forfeiture and other civil proceedings of matters occurring before the grand jury involving banking offenses).

⁵⁹ Cf., Illinois v. Abbott & Associates, Inc., 460 U.S. 557, 565-73 (1983)(Attorney General's statutory obligation to share certain investigative with state authorities did not create an exception to Rule 6(e) requirements); In re North, 16 F.3d 1234, 1243 (D.C.Cir. 1994) (Independent Counsel's statutory reporting obligation did not excuse noncompliance with Rule 6(e) requirements).

⁶⁰ 18 U.S. 687 (1940 ed.); 28 U.S.C. 2072, 2074.

⁶¹ 28 U.S.C. 2074.

⁶² In re Cudahy, 294 F.3d 947, (7th Cir. 2002)(“The purpose of Rule 6(e) is to protect the confidentiality of the grand jury's hearings and deliberations, and the term ‘matters occurring before the grand jury’ is interpreted accordingly. See Martin v. Consultants & Administrators, Inc., 966 F.2d 1078, 1097 (7th Cir. 1992)(‘the general rule is that Rule 6(e)'s nondisclosure requirement applies to anything that may reveal what occurred before the grand jury’); In re Sealed Case No. 99-3091, 192 F.3d 995, 1001(D.C.Cir. 1999)(the phrase ‘matters occurring before the grand jury’ encompasses ‘not only what has occurred and what is occurring, but also what is likely to occur, including the identities of witnesses or jurors, the substance of testimony as well as actual transcripts, the strategy or direction of the investigation, the deliberations or questions of jurors, and the like’); United States v. Phillips, 843 F.2d 438, 441 (11th Cir. 1988)(‘the term “matters occurring before a grand jury” has been defined to include anything that will reveal what transpired during the grand jury proceedings’)).

would preclude disclosure to Congress or to Justice Department officials whose duties include investigation of misconduct by Department attorneys.⁶³

Nevertheless, perhaps because of Administration opposition, the provision was dropped from H.R. 3199 prior to House passage. No similar provision could be found in H.R. 3199 (S. 1389) as approved in the Senate, in the conference bill, H.Rept. 109-333 (2005), or the legislation ultimately enacted.

S. 1739

S. 1739, introduced by Senator Leahy, rewrites section 3144.⁶⁴ In its recast form, section 3144 among other things would:

- establish a preference for postponing arrest until after a material witness has been served with a summons or subpoena and failed or refused to appear, unless the court finds by clear and convincing evidence that service is likely to result in flight or otherwise unlikely to secure the witness' attendance;
- make it clear that the provision applies to grand jury proceedings;
- explicitly permit arrest by officers who are not in physical possession of the warrant;
- require an initial judicial appearance without unnecessary delay in the district of the arrest or in an adjacent district if more expedient or if the warrant was issued there and the appearance occurs on the day of arrest;
- limit detention to 5 day increments for a maximum of 30 days (10 days in the case of grand jury witness);
- require the Attorney General to file an annual report to the Judiciary Committees on the number of material witness warrants sought, granted and denied within the year; the number of material witnesses arrested who were not deposed or did not appear before judicial proceedings; and the average number of days arrested material witnesses were detained.

In lieu of the clear and convincing evidence standard in favor of release and the time limits on detention, the existing statute insists that “no material witness may be detained because of inability to comply with any condition of release if the testimony of such witness can adequately be secured by deposition, and if further detention is not necessary to prevent a failure of justice,” 18 U.S.C. 3144. The proposed amendment has no comparable provision.

In light of the 5 day limit on detention without further judicial approval, S. 1739 would eliminate the reporting requirement now found in Rule 46(h)(2) of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, i.e., “An attorney for the government must report biweekly to the court, listing each material witness held in custody for more than 10 days pending indictment, arraignment, or trial. For each material witness listed in the report, an attorney for the government must state why the witness should not be released with or without a deposition being taken under Rule 15(a).”

⁶³ 5 U.S.C.App.III §8E(b)(2).

⁶⁴ 151 Cong. Rec. S10298-299 (daily ed. Sept. 21, 2005)(text); the text of proposed new section 3144 is appended.

Appendix A. 18 U.S.C. 3144 (S. 1739 proposed amendments)

(a) Arrest of Material Witness—

(1) A judicial officer may order the arrest of a person as a material witness, if it appears from an affidavit filed by a party in a criminal case before a court of the United States, or by an attorney for the Government in a matter occurring before a Federal grand jury, that there is probable cause to believe that—(A) the testimony of such person is material in such case or matter; and (B) the person has been served with a summons or subpoena and failed or refused to appear as required.

(2) A judicial officer may waive the summons or subpoena requirement described in paragraph (1)(B), if the judicial officer finds by clear and convincing evidence that the service of a summons or subpoena—(A) is likely to result in the person fleeing; or (B) cannot adequately secure the appearance of the person as required.

(b) Warrant for Material Witness—

(1) A warrant issued under subsection (a) shall—(A) contain the name of the material witness or, if the name of such witness is unknown, a name or description by which the witness can be identified with reasonable certainty; (B) specify that the testimony of the witness is sought in a criminal case or grand jury proceeding; (C) command that the witness be arrested and brought without unnecessary delay before a judicial officer; (D) inform the witness of the witness's right to retain counsel or to request that counsel be appointed if the witness cannot obtain counsel; and (E) be signed by a judicial officer.

(2)(A) A warrant issued under subsection (a) shall be executed by arresting the material witness. (B) (i) Upon arrest, an officer possessing the warrant shall show such warrant to the material witness. (ii) If an officer does not possess the warrant at the time of arrest of a material witness, an officer—(I) shall inform the witness of the existence and purpose of the warrant; and (II) at the request of the witness, shall provide the warrant to the witness as soon as possible.

(3)(A) After executing a warrant issued under subsection (a), an officer shall return the warrant to the judicial officer before whom the material witness is brought in accordance with subsection (c). (B) At the request of an attorney for the United States Government, an unexecuted warrant shall be brought back to and canceled by a judicial officer.

(c) Initial Appearance—

(1) A material witness arrested pursuant to a warrant issued under subsection (a) shall be brought without unnecessary delay before a judicial officer.

(2) The initial appearance of a material witness arrested pursuant to a warrant issued under subsection (a) shall be—(A) in the district of arrest; or (B) in an adjacent district if—(i) the appearance can occur more promptly there; or (ii) the warrant was issued there and the initial appearance will occur on the day of the arrest.

(3) At the initial appearance described in paragraph (2), a judicial officer shall—(A) inform a material witness of—(i) the warrant against the witness, and the application and affidavit filed in support of the warrant; and (ii) the witness's right to retain counsel or to request that counsel be appointed if the witness cannot obtain counsel; (B) allow the witness a reasonable opportunity to consult with counsel; (C) release or detain the witness as provided by subsection (d); and (D) if the initial appearance occurs in a district other than where the warrant issued, transfer the witness to such district, provided that the judicial officer finds that the witness is the same person named in the warrant.

(d) Release or Detention—

(1) Upon the appearance before a judicial officer of a material witness arrested pursuant to a warrant issued under subsection (a), the judicial officer shall order the release or detention of such witness.

(2)(A) A judicial officer shall order the release of a material witness arrested pursuant to a warrant issued under subsection (a) on personal recognizance or upon execution of an unsecured appearance bond under section 3142(b), or on a condition or combination of conditions under section 3142(c), unless the judicial officer determines by clear and convincing evidence that such release will not reasonably assure the appearance of the witness as required. (B) No material witness may be detained because of the inability of the witness to comply with any condition of release if the testimony of such witness can adequately be secured by deposition.

(3)(A) If, after a hearing pursuant to the provisions of section 3142(f)(2), a judicial officer finds by clear and convincing evidence that no condition or combination of conditions will reasonably assure the appearance of a material witness as required by this section, such judicial officer may order that the witness be detained for a period not to exceed 5 days, or until the testimony of the witness can adequately be secured by deposition or by appearance before the court or grand jury, whichever is earlier. (B)(i) Subject to clause (ii), upon the motion of a party (or an attorney for the United States Government in a matter occurring before a Federal grand jury), the period of detention under subparagraph (A) may be extended for additional periods of up to 5 days, or until the testimony of a material witness can adequately be secured by deposition or by appearance before the court or grand jury, whichever is earlier. (ii) The total period of detention under this subparagraph may not exceed—(I) 30 days, where the testimony of the witness is sought in a criminal case; or (II) 10 days, where the testimony of the witness is sought in a grand jury proceeding. (C) A motion under subparagraph (B) shall demonstrate good cause for why the testimony of a material witness could not adequately be secured by deposition or by appearance before the court or grand jury during the previous 5-day period.

(4) A judicial officer, in determining whether a material witness should be released or detained—(A) shall take into account the available information concerning the history and characteristics of the witness, including the information described in section 3142(g)(3)(A); and (B) may consider challenges to the basis of the warrant.

(5) A release order issued under paragraph (2) shall comply with the requirements of paragraphs (1) and (2)(B) of section 3142(h).

(6) A detention order issued under paragraph (3) shall comply with the requirements of section 3142(i), provided that a judicial officer shall direct that a material witness be held—(A) in a facility separate and apart, to the extent practicable, from persons charged with or convicted of a criminal offense; and (B) under the least restrictive conditions possible.

(e) Report—

(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Attorney General shall provide to the Committees on the Judiciary of the Senate and the House of Representatives an annual report regarding the use of this section by the United States Government during the preceding 1-year period.

(2) A report required under paragraph (1) shall include—(A) the number of warrants sought under subsection (a), and the number either granted or denied; (B) the number of material witnesses arrested pursuant to a warrant issued under subsection (a) whose testimony was not secured by deposition or by appearance before the court or grand jury, and the reasons therefore; and (C) the average number of days that material witnesses arrested pursuant to a warrant issued under subsection (a) were detained. Proposed 18 U.S.C. 3144 (some captions omitted).

Appendix B. Citations to State Material Witness Statutes⁶⁵

Alabama: ALA.CODE §§15-11-13 to 15-11-14;
Alaska: ALASKA STAT. §12.30.050;
Arizona: ARIZ.REV.STAT.ANN. §13-4081 to 13-4084;
Arkansas: ARK.CODE ANN. §§16-85-508, 16-85-208, 16-85-210, 16-85-211;
California: CAL. PENAL CODE §§878-883;
Colorado: COLO.R.CRIM.P. 15(b);
Connecticut: CONN.GEN.STAT.ANN. §54-82j, 54-82k;
Delaware: DEL.CODE ANN. tit.11 §5911;
Florida: FLA.STAT.ANN. §§902.15, 902.17;
Georgia: GA.CODE §§17-7-26, 17-7-27;
Hawaii: HAWAII REV.STAT. §§835-1 to 835-8;
Idaho: IDAHO CODE §§19-820 to 19-824;
Illinois: ILL.COMP. LAWS ANN. ch.725 §5/109-3;
Iowa: IOWA CODE ANN. §§804.11, 804.23;
Kansas: KAN.STAT.ANN. §22-2805;
Kentucky: Ky.R.Crim.P. 7.06;
Louisiana: LA.REV.STAT.ANN. §15:257;
Maine: ME.REV.STAT.ANN. tit.15 §1104;
Maryland: Md.Cts. & Jud. Pro. Code §9-203, Md.Rules, R4-267; Massachusetts: MASS.GEN.LAWS ANN. ch.276 §§45-52;
Michigan: MICH.COMP.LAWS ANN. §§765.29, 765.30, 767.35;
Minnesota: MINN.STAT.ANN. §§629.54, 629.55;
Mississippi: MISS.CODE ANN. §99-15-7;
Missouri: MO.ANN.STAT. §544.420;
Montana: MONT.CODE ANN. §46-11-601;
Nebraska: NEB.REV.STAT. §29-507 to 29-508.02;
Nevada: NEV.REV.STAT. §178.494;
New Hampshire: N.H.REV.STAT.ANN. §597:6-d;
New Jersey: N.J.STAT.ANN. §2C:104-1 to 104-9;
New Mexico: N.MEX.STAT.ANN. §31-3-7;
New York: N.Y. CRIMINAL PROCEDURE LAW §§620.10 to 620.80;
North Carolina: N.C.GEN.STAT. §15A-803;
North Dakota: N.D.R.Crim.P. 46;
Ohio: OHIO REV.CODE ANN. §§2937.16 to 2937.18;
Oklahoma: OKLA.STAT.ANN. tit.22 §§270-275;
Oregon: ORE.REV.STAT. §§136.608 to 136.614;
Pennsylvania: Pa.R.Crim.P. 522;
Rhode Island: R.I.Super.Ct. R.Crim.P.46, R.I.D.Ct. R.Crim.P. 46;
South Carolina: S.C. CODE ANN. §17-7-230, 17-7-650, 17-5-140;
South Dakota: S.D.COD.LAWS ANN. §23A-43-18;
Tennessee: TENN.CODE ANN. §§38-5-114; 40-10-107 to 40-10-112;
Texas: TEX.CODE OF CRIM.PRO.ANN. arts. 24.14, 24.15, 24.23 - 24.27;
Utah: UTAH R.CRIM.P. R.7, UTAH R.JUV.P. 59;
Vermont: VT.STAT.ANN. §§6605, 7551, 7554;
Virginia: VA. CODE ANN. §19.2-127;
Washington: Wash.Super.Ct.Crim.R. 4.10;
West Virginia: W.VA.CODE ANN. §§62-1C-15, 62-6-4;
Wisconsin: WIS.STAT.ANN. §969.01;
Wyoming: WYO.STAT. §5-6-206.

⁶⁵ In addition, forty-nine states have adopted the Uniform Act to Secure the Attendance of Witnesses From Without a State in Criminal Proceedings in one form or another, 11 U.L.A. 1 (2004 Supp.).

Appendix C. Bibliography

Articles

- Bascuas, The Unconstitutionality of “Hold Until Cleared”: Reexamining Material Witness Detentions in the Wake of the September 11th Dragnet, 58 VANDERBILT LAW REVIEW 677 (2005).
- Boyle, The Material Witness Statute Post September 11: Why It Should Not Include Grand Jury Witnesses, 48 NEW YORK LAW SCHOOL LAW REVIEW 12 (2003).
- Carlson, Jailing the Innocent: The Plight of the Material Witness, 55 IOWA LAW REVIEW 1 (1969).
- Carlson & Voelpel, Material Witness and Material Justice, 58 WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY LAW QUARTERLY 1 (1980).
- Iraola, Terrorism, Grand Juries, and the Federal Material Witness Statute, 34 ST. MARY’S LAW JOURNAL 401(2003).
- Levinson, Detention, Material Witnesses & the War on Terrorism, 35 LOYOLA OF LOS ANGELES LAW REVIEW 1217 (2002).
- Margulies, Detention of Material Witnesses, Exigency, and the Rule of Law, 40 CRIMINAL LAW BULLETIN 4 (Nov. 2004).
- Studnicki, Material Witness Detention: Justice Served or Denied? 40 WAYNE LAW REVIEW 1533 (1994).
- Studnicki & Apol, Witness Detention and Intimidation: The History and Future of Material Witness Law, 76 ST. JOHN’S LAW REVIEW 483 (2002).

Notes

- The Application of Material Witness Provisions: A Case Study—Are Homeless Material Witnesses entitled to Due Process and Representation by Counsel?* 36 VILLANOVA LAW REVIEW 597 (1991).
- Cessante Ratione Legis Cessat Ipsa Lex (The Plight of the Detained Material Witness)*, 7 CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY LAW REVIEW 37 (1957).
- Confining Material Witnesses in Criminal Cases*, 20 WASHINGTON & LEE LAW REVIEW 164 (1963).
- A Mandatory Right to Counsel for the Material Witness*, 19 UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN JOURNAL OF LAW REFORM 473 (1986).
- Material Witnesses in Criminal Proceedings: Securing and Assuring Their Attendance*, 18 MISSOURI LAW REVIEW 38 (1953).
- Pretrial Detention of Witnesses*, 117 UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA LAW REVIEW 700 (1969).
- United States v. Awadallah: Uncle Sam Wants You to Spend Eighty-Three Days Behind Bars? An Analysis of the Case and Its Implications for Fourth Amendment Jurisprudence*, 78 ST. JOHN’S LAW REVIEW 185 (2004).
- Witnesses—Imprisonment of the Material Witness for Failure to Give Bond*, 40 NEBRASKA LAW REVIEW 503 (1961).

Author Information

Charles Doyle
Senior Specialist in American Public Law

Disclaimer

This document was prepared by the Congressional Research Service (CRS). CRS serves as nonpartisan shared staff to congressional committees and Members of Congress. It operates solely at the behest of and under the direction of Congress. Information in a CRS Report should not be relied upon for purposes other than public understanding of information that has been provided by CRS to Members of Congress in connection with CRS's institutional role. CRS Reports, as a work of the United States Government, are not subject to copyright protection in the United States. Any CRS Report may be reproduced and distributed in its entirety without permission from CRS. However, as a CRS Report may include copyrighted images or material from a third party, you may need to obtain the permission of the copyright holder if you wish to copy or otherwise use copyrighted material.